THE PASSING OF J. H. SEAWELL

Mendocino County Mourns the Death of a Citizen.

Universal Grief Expressed at the Untimely Death of One Prominently Identified With the History of the County.

Sunday morning last at 1 oclock Senator J. H. Seawell passed away at the sanitarium in this city. For several months he had been in ill health and, accompanied by his wife, had spent most of the summer at Lierly's resort, Eel river, in an endeavor to regain his former vigor.

He had so far recovered as to be able to ride horseback and while out for his usual exercise last Thursday morning was thrown and received the injuries that caused his death. It was at first reported that he had not been seriously hurt but on being brought to this city and a consultation of physicians held fear was expressed as to the result of the shock on his nervous system.

Dr. Morton was summoned from San Francisco and everything possible done by the attending physicians to prolong his life but their efforts were futile.

John Henry Seawell was born in Lafayette county, Missouri, November 22, 1845, and arrived with his parents in Napa county in 1853. He graduated at the head of his class in 1870 from the Pacific Methodist college at Vacaville. He came to Mendocino county in 1871 and was elected principal of the Ukiah schools. He was elected county school superintendent in 1873, and was married the same year.

The deceased was undersheriff of the county from 1875 to 1879, and again from 1881 to 1886. He began the practice of law in January, 1887, was elected to the assembly in 1888, and was senator in 1890 and 1894. In 1898 he lacked but a few votes of securing the Democratic nomination for justice of the supreme court. He also served as mayor of Ukiah, and was a candidate for presidential elector in 1900. He was an active member of the board of managers of the Mendocino state hospital for several years and had a great deal to do with the establishment of that institution here.

His friends are made to feel the blow of his death more keenly by the fact that the deceased was rapidly recovering his health and would no doubt have resumed his professional duties in a short time had it not been for his sad accident.

The funeral service took place under the trees in the yard surrounding the late residence of the deceased Wednesday afternoon and was attended by a host of grief-stricken friends. The ceremonies were conducted by the local Masonic lodge of which, during life, Mr. Seawell was an ardent and faithful member. The local lodge of Odd Fellows of which the deceased was also a member attended the obsequies.

Rev. Moore officiated, and after reading a brief sketch of the life of Mr. Seawell Mr. Moore said: "These brief statistics compass a life that has filled as large a place in the history of Mendocino county as perhaps any other individual life that has gone to make up that history and his past has gone into the brightest and best part of the record. His history reaches beyond the confines of his county and mingles with the story of this great commonwealth.

His commanding abilities caused him to tower above a narrow environment as Sanhedrim towers above its neighboring hills, and drew him into the circle of stately men who are the citizens of a whole state rather than of a neighborhood or a county; hence, the shadow of our gloom has fallen upon the other counties; the moans and mutterings of our storm of sorrow are heard throughout the state. He was one of the strong men of California, but he was our fellow citizen, our fellow townsman—he was doubly dear to us, and we honor ourselves when we stop to recount his virtues and pay our tribute of respect to his memory.

Could I frame in fitting and happy phrase the feeling of grief that settled upon this community when the announcement of the death of Senator Seawell was made, I could embalm the memory of our distinguished dead in the rarest and brightest of garlands. No words of mine can portray the loving esteem of a whole community, nor express the eloquence of universal grief. No poor phrase of mine can add to the peace of his ashes or lend sweetness to his sleep, augment the charm of his gentleness or increase the brightness of his fame.

A generous God endowed him with the forces and qualities of brain and heart that make men noble and lovable, and with these he has enshrined himself in your hearts and made for himself a monument more enduring than marble, more splendid than my tongue can describe. He needs no word from me. His gentle sympathy, his broad charity, his unstained life of noble integrity make up a ulogy too patent to need an interpreter, too vital to need embalming phrase, too distinctly expressed to need iteration.

The progress of his life marked a gradual but distinct ascent. Coming into your midst with the honors of his school life fresh upon him, he became at once the principal of your public school. From this he passed to the superintendency of the public schools of your county. Then he became undersheriff. Next he was elected your representative in the assembly. Next he was advanced to represent his district in the senate of California for two terms. More than once he has been prominently discussed for gubernatorial honors. He came into your midst with no profession save that of a teacher; he ends his honorable career recognized as among the first members of the legal profession at your bar, and, but for the fact that he considered his friends more than he did his own personal advantage and advancement, he would probably at the time of his death have been a member of the supreme court of this state.

The offices he held fitly express the type of his patriotism and the ideals of his life. They were trusts, in the main, without pecuniary profit; positions of honorable usefulness without financial reward. He never demanded that the favor that he gained in the eyes of the people should redound to his personal, pecuniary advantage. Manhood to him meant more than the guinea stamp, life more than the gingle of coin. In his advancement he never forgot a friend nor lost interest in his adopted home.

Yonder stately hospital, located in your midst mainly through his effort and by his influence, is an evidence of his gratitude to those who honored him; is proof of his force and influence among men; is a tangible expression and fitting monument to his devotion and his fidelity to his people and his county. For his people he demanded every right and claimed just consideration always; for himself he claimed nothing, and in political as in private life he kept his hands unstained and his character unsullied.

As a lawyer, though starting late in life, he forged his way to the front, and took a position among the ablest men at the bar. A brother lawyer, who has known him through all the years of his professional life, said of him: "He had the highest appreciation of the ethics and dignity of his profession." To him his profession was a noble science to be practiced for the good and peace of his country; in no sense a system of tricks for the gaining of mean advantage and piling up illgotten gain. In the hands of such a man the law, save the work of a humble and faithful minister of the gospel, is the noblest of all the professions and the truest safeguard of a people's liberties.

LIT MOORE SHOT.

Jealousy Prompted C. B. Bloyd to Use His Gun With Serious Effect.

At the mask ball at North Fork soda spring near Christine last Saturday night, C. B. Bloyd shot and probably fatally wounded Lit Moore.

It is reported that Bloyd attended the ball and masked. Later in the evening Bloyd saw Moore and Mrs. Bloyd enter the hall. He afterwards missed them and proceeded to hunt them up. He learned that they had gone to a cabin some little distance away and he went for his shot gun. He waited in front of the cabin until they came out, Mrs. Bloyd emerging first, and as Moore turned to fasten the door Bloyd fired. A portion of the charge of buckshot took effect in Moore's abdomen.

Immediately after the shooting Bloyd gave himself up to Constable F. M. Looney, who brought him to this city Sunday and lodged him in the local jail. Moore was taken to Greenwood for medical treatment and at last reports was still alive.

Bloyd is a man of about 60 years of age and his wife is about ten years younger. They have been married for a number of years and raised a family. No charge has been placed against Bloyd as the officers are awaiting the result of the wound.

The Excursion.

Sunday last two trains of ten cars each pulled in from San Francisco heavily ladened with excursionists. This was the first excursion from San Francisco this summer and about 1400 people took advantage of the $2 rate for the round trip. The day was an ideal one and fairly represented the average summer weather. The visitors were an unusually quiet and well behaved crowd and caused but little trouble to the local police force. It is to be hoped that the local railway company will give the city people a chance for another visit in the near future. Among some of the former Ukiahites who were noticed were: Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Vann, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tutt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Petrie, Mrs. Della Harris, Mrs. Etta Phinney, Mrs. Perle Petit, Misses Lucile and Edith Curtis, Elsie Ohm, Messrs Frank Nutter, Ernest Mathews, George Ray, Harold Hart, Bert O'Farrell, J. REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

The State Ticket Chosen at Sacramento.

A Warm Contest Over The Nomination for Chairmanship of the State Convention.

The Republican state convention met at Sacramento last Monday to nominate the state ticket. It was composed of the ablest men in the state, and out of the 830 delegates elected nearly all were present.

The first contest was over the chairmanship and was between Lieutenant-Governor Neff and Congressman Metcalf. The backers of Neff won out, however, and he was elected.

The contest for the gubenatorial nomination was exceedingly warm. Gage, Flint, Pardee, Edison and Hayes were each placed in nomination. On the first ballot Gage was in the lead with Flint a close second, Pardee third, Edson and Hayes standing in the order named.

At the third ballot Flint had made some gains but Gage still led and had one half vote more than he had on the first. By this time it was becoming apparent that neither of the leaders could secure the nomination and adjournment was taken until Wednesday.

On Wednesday balloting proceeded with slight changes until the sixth ballot when the Gage supporters broke and went for Pardee giving the gentleman from Alameda the nomination with 514 votes. Flints supporters staid with their candidate to the last.

The rest of the places were filled without much contest. The ticket as it stands is as follows:

George C. Pardee of Alameda, Governor; Alden Anderson of Solano, Lieutenant-Governor; W. H. Beatty of San Francisco, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court; F. M. Angelotti of Marin, and Lucien Shaw of Los Angeles, Associate Justices of the Supreme Court; Charles F. Curry of San Francisco, Secretary of State; U. S. Webb of Plumns, Attorney-General; Truman Reeves of San Bernardio, Treasurer; E. P. Colgan of Sonoma, Controller; T. J. Kirk of Fresno, Supt. Public Instruction; V. H. Woods of San Luis Obispo, Surveyor-General; F. C. Jordan of Alameda, Clerk of Supreme Court; W. W. Shannon of San Francisco, State Printer; for Congress Second District, Frank L. Coombs.

Bert Beach Injured.

Bert Beach, a brakeman on the Willits branch of the local railroad met with a serious accident Wednesday morning. The 6 oclock freight train was switching and Mr. Beach was walking along the tops of some box cars toward the rear of the train. When near the round house, just as he had reached the last car, the train stopped. Beach lost his balance and fell to the ground. Medical attendance was summoned and it was found that he had sustained a colles fracture of both wrists and numerous scratches and bruises about the head. His injuries are extremely painful but not fatal, and it is quite likely that several months will elapse before he will be able to resume his duties.

Betrayed His Trust.

Fred Milligan, a boy of 16, was brought in town last week and accused taking money and valuable from Mrs. Goddard, who resides near Orrs springs, to the value of about $15. Young Milligan was taken from the orphans home at San Rafael and employed at the convent in this city for some time. Finally he left there and secured work at Mrs. Goddard's, and had enjoyed the confidence of the family up to the time of his escapade. The money and stolen articles were recovered and on account of the boys youth the officers deemed it best to return him to the Orphans home. He was sent down on Tuesday's train.

Rough on Twain.

The Missouri papers are telling this story of Mark Twain's recent visit to the state: A big crowd gathered at a railway station to mee him. A little boy knew that somebody was coming, but he did not know Mark Twain from Bossie Francis. This kid perched himself on top of a freight car, where he could see what happened. The train rolled in, and as Mark stepped off the people became excited and shouted: "Here he is! Here he is!" The kid on the box car thought a great criminal had been caught and shouted: "Git a rope! Git a rope!" Dr. Clemens laughed till the tears ran out of his eyes.

Children and School.

It is curious the difference in the regard children have for their school and school work. When a fire started in the Warren street school one day recently, a little girl went sobbing down the street, with streaming eyes, because she feared her school was to be destroyed. A moment later a boy came tearing down the street on his wheel working overtime and shouting: "Hurrah, kids! The old prison's on fire!" —Toledo Times.

Ambiguous.

One of the weekly papers has just unearthed a quaint army order. It deals with the machine guns provided for certain volunteer corps and advises that, where possible, "mules should be employed to draw them." "When a mule is not available, however," it goes on, "any intelligent noncommissioned officer will do instead." There are several ways of calling a man an ass.—London Globe.

Cause and Effect.

Mrs. Newliwed—Oh, my! Do you think my cooking is responsible for it?

Congress "Elocuted."

"When is congress going to adjourn?" some one asked Senator Hansbrough early in June.

"Congress will die as Pat O'Brien died," was the reply.

"And how was that?"

"Haven't you heard the story? Well, a friend of Pat's met another friend. 'Pat's going to be hung,' he said. 'Oh, no,' said the friend. 'Indade he is,' was the positive answer. 'He has been convicted of murther in the first degree, and that means hanging.' 'No,' insisted the friend. 'They don't hang men any more now. They kill them by a process called elocution.'"

Aging While She Hesitated.

Representative Warnock of Ohio, who was judge of the court of special pleas in his district for ten years, was once trying a case in which a woman was on the stand as a witness.

"How old are you?" asked the attorney who was questioning her.

The woman hesitated.

"Don't hesitate," suggested the lawyer. "The longer you hesitate the older you will be."

When the President Approves.

When President Roosevelt desires to express his approbation of a man in the highest possible terms, he calls him a "corker." The other day the wife of a prominent financier was presented to Mr. Roosevelt. "I am delighted to meet you," said the president. "I know your husband very well. He is a corker."

The lady went away wondering. When she reached home, she asked her husband what the president meant by calling him a "corker" and said she was much worried because Mr. Roosevelt entertained such an opinion of him.—Chicago News.

NOW LOOK OUT!

"Take care of yourself," say our friends. "I'll try to," we answer. We do take a little care, yet in spite of warm clothes, rubbers and mackintoshes, an army of people were bowled out by pneumonia and other lung and chest diseases last winter. They caught cold, neglected it, let it fix upon them, were torn by coughs, choked by inflammations and congestions, wasted by fever, tired out by pain and then gave up the fight. The hour you realize that you have a cold on the chest, place a Benson's Porous Plaster where the pain or oppression is felt. If you think two are needed make it two. No harm if you were covered with them. They act quickly and prevent the engorgment of blood in the organs. In this way—with ordinary caution as to exposure—you will break up the cold and avoid a serious sickness. No other applications, or any other form of treatment, will accomplish this as certainly and speedily. Benson's Plasters have a distinct and positive action and are curative to the highest degree. Use them with the same confidence for coughs, muscular rheumatism, the grip (back and chest) and all similar ailments. Women, who are chief sufferers from cold weather complaints, should keep these plasters always within reach. Get the genuine. CONDENSED STORIES.

Wilton Lackaye's Estimate of a Rival Uncle Tom.

Wilton Lackaye, the actor, has been credited with some very bright impromptu sayings, generally having to do with the people and things of his calling and for that reason not always to be appreciated by the layman. This, however, seems like one well within the grasp of even nontheater goers. In the winter of 1900-01 Lackaye was playing Uncle Tom in a Chicago revival of the popular old drama made from Mrs. Stowe's book. During the engagement there the play was produced at low prices in another Chicago theater, and Lackaye, with some of the fellow members of his company, went out one afternoon to see their roles acted by the minor players. The Uncle Tom of the low price performance was an immense chap, weighing at least 300 pounds. When the performance was over, one of his companions turned to Lackaye and asked:

"Well, Will, what did you think of the big fellow in burnt cork?"

"Anatomically great! Uncle-Tomically putrid!" was Lackaye's reply.—Philadelphia Times.

A Dark Pledge.

The appearance of Grace George in a revival of "Frou Frou" in New York brought from the past an anecdote of Mrs. Potter when she was presenting her ideas of Gilberte in the same play. The actress describes it as her "worst moment," and it is told as follows:

She was a little late for her third entrance, and, seeing the child, as she thought, waiting, as usual, in the wings for her to take it on and show it to its reputed father, caught hold of its hand without a word and whirled it after her on the stage, delivering the lines which called the actor's attention to the "pledge of our mutual love." A perfect roar of laughter broke from the audience. Mrs. Potter gasped, looked at the child and nearly fainted. She had brought on a negress of the blackest type.

Maiden Speeches.

Eighty years or so ago a distinguished Irish member of the British parliament named Dogherty, who subsequently became chief justice of Ireland, asked Canning what he thought of his maiden speech. "The only fault I can find with it," said Canning, "is that you called the speaker 'sir' too often." "My dear friend," said Dogherty, "if you knew the mental state I was in while speaking you would not wonder if I had called him 'ma'am.'" Whiteside, another Irish member who also became chief justice of Ireland, used to relate that on seeing during his maiden speech the speaker's wig surrounded by blue flames he knew it was time to sit down.

OPENING A JACKPOT.

The Kansas friends of Gene Ware have dug up an English edition of "Ironquill," annotated liberally in explanation of its Americanisms. The refrain, "Who openeth a jackpot may not always rake it down," suggests difficulties disposed of in a footnote, which lays down a safe and conservative rule for foreigners in the great American game: "The 'jackpot' is a feature of a gambling game at cards in which each player contributes an equal amount of money to the formation of the 'pot.' To 'open' a jackpot mesns to start the gambling for that particular pot. It can only be done by that player who has a hand of a certain prescribed degree of excellence. If he can sustain his supremacy, he may win, but in the course of the play he may lose. If he wins, he wins all; hence to open a jackpot, in slang parlance, means a person with a temporary advantage endeavoring to get all that his associates have in sight. Four kings is a good hand to open on."

Butler of Isaac Khan.

General Isaac Khan, minister plenipotentiary from Persia to the United States, is decidedly cosmopolitan in his habits and tastes. Even among his servants at the legation several countries are represented.

His butler is a Persian, but the assistant butler is an Irishman.

One day the minister happened to overhear a conversation between the Irishman and a tradesman.

The Irishman was discussing the language spoken at the legation.

"Can you understand it?" asked the tradesman.

"Not at all, at all," replied the butler's assistant, "but Oi make them think Oi do."

"Is that so?"

"It is so," he went on. "They think Oi know the Persian gibberish and that Oi've thraveled in their country, but the fact is Oi've never been to South America in all my life."—Saturday Evening Post.

Storing Electricity.

We note with regret that while the great electricians all speak hopefully of the transmission of power they are much more reserved about the great need of the hour—better means for its accumulation. If we could but store energy in some way not involving excessive weight, all means of transit would be rapidly improved and steam would speedily come to be regarded as an antiquated motive power. The discovery will come, for hundreds of the keenest minds in the world are engaged in the research; but meanwhile the progress of locomotion halts. With a cheap and light accumulator the world will be a very small place and will soon contain but few obscure corners.—Spectator.

This is a choice variety of fish that was put into San Francisco bay some time ago by the fish commissioners, and although they have been caught off and on at different points on the coast, this is the first that has been reported in this vicinity. They are increasing very rapidly, and it is expected that in a few years they will be very numerous. Large numbers of fine salmon were caught outside by Fort Bragg fishermen during the week.

Mr. Stewart was born in Dundee, Scotland, in 1843, but was raised in the north of Ireland, coming to American in his early youth. In 1881 he came to Navarro as a teamster for the Navarro mill company and faithfully served the company in that capacity until their failure on 1893, since which time he has been in the employ of James Coyle. The deceased leaves three children, Miss Charlotte Stewart of Spokane, Wash., Miss Sarah Stewart of San Francisco and Mrs. John Stewart of Eureka, who have sympathy of the entire community.

Postmaster Eri Huggins has had the postoffice newly painted, which greatly improves its interior appearance. The people of this city are fortunate in having such a progressive man as Mr. Huggins for postmaster.

Mike Marengo of Caspar, aged about 38 years, a native of Italy, met with a shocking accident Monday forenoon, under peculiar circumstances. Charlie Henningsen, engineer on the Caspar railroad, took a day off, Mr. Marengo taking his place. As the train passed the Hare creek bridge, about six miles out from Caspar, the fireman, August Dahl, looked up from his work and was surprised to find Marengo missing. He looked out on the locomotive, and not seeing him there, became alarmed, and called the attention of Tom Welch, the brakesman, to the fact. The train was running at full speed, and they concluded to stop it, which they did. Going back over the track, they discovered Marengo hanging from a truss on the suspension bridge, but just before they got to where he was, he dropped, going through the bridge, falling to the ground, about fifteen feet below. The supposition is that he was looking out of the cab, with his head down, when his head came in contact with v shaped timbers of the bridge, breaking his neck, and pulling him out of the cab, death being instantaneous. The accident is a very sad one, four children and a wife mourning the loss of a good father and husband. F. A. Whipple, acting as coroner, held the inquest, the jury bringing in a verdict of accidental death. Deceased was a member of Santana Tribe, No. 60, I. O. R. M., of this city, and we understand had a life insurance of about $1400 in the Portuguese society of Mendocino.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

Some Interesting Items Regarding the State Institution.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, August 23.—There are now 622 regular freshmen in the University of California, or ninety-six more than on August 28 of last year. This remarkable expansion has come about, notwithstanding the increase in difficulty of the entrance examinations. The students applying for admission seem much better prepared than ever before.

The freshmen are distributed among the various courses as follows: Letters—men 18, women 49, total 67; social sciences—men 71, women 165, total 236; natural sciences—men 28, women 24, total 52; commerce—men 32; chemistry—men 36, women 7, total 43; agriculture—men 13, women 2, total 15; civil engineering—men 45; mechanics—men 58, women 1, total 59; mining—men 73. Of the freshmen, 60.4 percent are men and 39.6 percent women. Two years ago the women students were 49 percent of the freshman class.

Daily gymnasium work under the direction of Professor Walter E. Magee is required of every freshman. Hearst hall, a gift of Mrs. Hearst to the university, is one of the best equipped women's gymnasiums in the United States, and the Harmon gymnasium affords excellent facilities for the physical education of the men. Four days a week the freshmen exercise in the gymnasium. Once a week the freshmen hear a lecture on personal hygiene—on how to make the most of themselves physically.

The gymnasium work begins with the setting-up exercises such as are used at West Point and in the United States army. Then comes work with dumbbells, barbells, Indian clubs, chest weights and the parallel bars. Before actual work in the gymnasium is started, every freshman is carefully examined by a physician, his heart and lungs tested and all malformations or weaknesses noted. For such freshmen as have any organic weakness or physicial lack, special exercises are prescribed. The gymnasium is equipped with developing apparatus so planned as to furnish means of overcoming any remediable defect.

The most complete and accurate measurements are made of every freshman when he enters the university and again at the end of the year. Data are also obtained from the student himself in regard to his own physical history, his parentage and his constitutional tendencies. These records form an invaluable index of his physical condition and development. The weekly required lectures on hygiene by Dr. G. F. Reinhardt for men and by Dr. Mary B. Ritter for women, include talks of a practical character on exercise, on the rational use of athletics and on bathing, food, ventillation, sleep, cleanliness and personal habits.

Leroyle Coming.

Other People's Money has a modern plot and deals with living people in the active world of financial and social scheming. It is devoid of the farce comedy element, yet is constructed to produce laughter from curtain rise to curtain fall. What the School for Scandal and The Rivals were to the olden time so is this latter day comedy to dramatic production of the present. To the theatre-goer grown tired of the common standard only too often adopted by managers as a make-shift or desire to emphasize, there is a treat in store for those witnessing Mr. Leroyle's unapproachable acting at Marks operahouse on Wednesday night, September 3d.

In marriage only when there is equality of health as well as affection. Affection may be the basis of unity in marriage, but the superstructure depends largely on the womanly health. When the wife is tormented with backache, distressed by headache, and racked by nervousness, she has no ambition for exercise or pleasure.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It cures headache, backache, and other womanly ills by curing the diseases of the womanly organism which cause them. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss, therefore accept no substitute.

"My wife commenced to complain twenty years ago," writes Lewis A. Miller, ex-Chief of Police, 33 Prospect Street, Weissport, Pa. "We have tried the skill of twelve different doctors. She took gallons of medicine during the time she was ill, until I wrote to you and you told us what to do. She has taken eight bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and six of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' She can do her own work now and can walk around again and is quite smart.

"You can publish this letter if you wish. We have received such benefit that we wish every sufferer could derive the same amount of good. My wife's complaint seemed to be a complication of diseases—so the doctors said. We will ever remain your friends. May God bless you and your Institute."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are the most desirable laxative for delicate women.

STABBED BY STRIKERS.

While Rescuing His Son Special Officer is Wounded.

Hazelton, Pa., Aug. 26.—August Scheuch, aged 26, a special policeman in the service of the Lehigh Valley Coal company, was assaulted and stabbed yesterday while attempting to rescue his son, William Scheuch, a non-union workman, from a mob of about 3000 strikers on the outskirts of Hazelton. The trouble occurred at the company colliery No. 40, where young Scheuch worked, in an attempt on the part of the strikers, who had gathered from all parts of the Hazelton region, to frustrate the plans of the company for a partial resumption. Two hundred and fifty non-union men had been secured. A majority of them were taken to the workings in a special train, with which the strikers did not attempt to interfere; but Scheuch, who lives in this city, walked from his home toward the colliery. He fell into the hands of the pickets, and most of the clothing was torn from his back in the struggle that followed. When Scheuch's father rushed to his aid the mob set upon the elder Scheuch, who finally was rescued by a mine foreman and removed to a hospital.

Scheuch was stabbed in the breast and on each hip, kicked in the abdomen and struck on the head with a stone. His injuries are not very serious. The effort to prevent work at the mine was successful.

The report of a resumption at the Cranberry colliery of A. Pardee & Co. caused about 500 men to gather near the mine, but no attempt was made to start work.

Tamaqua, Pa., Aug. 26.—Not since the inauguration of the anthracite coal miners' strike have the United Mine workers had so many pickets patroling the Panther Creek valley as Monday. Every road and path leading to the collieries was guarded in an effort to persuade the non-union men not to go to work. No new recruits were added to the working force, and quite a number were turned back. The extra vigilance was due to the rumor that it is the intention of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company to cut coal as soon as sufficient men can be secured.

An official of the company admitted that practical miners are hard to procure and that none of the coal companies is able to operate any of its mines for this reason.

JUMPED TO HIS DEATH

MILLIONAIRE LUMBER MAGNATE COMMITS SUICIDE.

While Suffering from Nervous Prostration A. W. Mitchell, a Resident of San Diego, Jumps from the Deck of a Steamer and is Drowned.

San Francisco, Aug. 26.—A. W. Mitchell, one of the millionaire lumber kings of Michigan, and for the last two years a resident of San Diego, Cal., committed suicide on August 12, while mentally deranged, by leaping into the sea from the deck of the Coptic, en route to Hongkong. Mitchell was surrounded by a group of passengers at the time he made his plunge, and was apparently the gayest of the party. In his fall his head struck one of the davit guy ropes with great force, and it is presumed that he was stunned by the impact. The vessel was immediately brought about and lifeboats lowered, but the body did not come to the surface. The deceased was 51 years of age, a native of Cadillac, Mich. He leaves a wife and two children, a boy and a girl, aged respectively 11 and 12 years, who at present live at San Diego. His mother, 70 years of age, resides at Cadillac. She is in feeble health and fears are entertained that the news of her son's tragic death will hasten the end.

On August 9 Mr. Mitchell, accompanied by Dr. C. E. Miller of Cadillac and a medical attendant from this city, embarked on the Coptic for a trip around the world. Mitchell had eben a sufferer from nervous prostration for three years previous.

Upon reaching Honolulu Dr. Miller and the medical attendant left the Coptic and took passage on the steamer Sonoma, which arrived in port yesterday.

The deceased, during his brief residence within California, became extremely interested in the local lumber industry. He was one of a syndicate which made large purchases of timber lands in Shasta county, and was instrumental in a movement having as its object the control of the McCloud river lumber belt.

TRY TO COVER UP CRIME.

Murderers Try to Incinerate Body of Their Victim.

Posatello, Aug. 26.—The body of a man, half consumed by fire, was found near Downey station Monday afternoon. A telephone message was received from Coroner Bean giving the details of what seems to have been a murder.

The remains were found a mile and a half north of Downey station and have since been identified as those of a man named Bruce, well known as a printer in Pocatello. When found the body was a mass of roasting flesh, blackened almost beyond all recognition. A burning tie lay across the body and a burning cloth was over the face. Burning ties had been heaped around the body and in a little more time would have been completely consumed.

Coroner Bean in his investigation found three bad cuts on the head, one above the left eye and two on the back of the head. From the position of the body Bean is confident that the man was murdered probably by tramps and then placed among the burning ties in order that all evidence of the crime might be obliterated.

Washington, Aug. 26.—After a conference between the army and navy officials here, it has been decided to make public a comprehensive statement of the features of the great war game to begin next Friday. Of course, the statement will not disclose any of the features of the projects which would make either side aware of the purposes of the other, and thus deprive the affair of interest.
